ACTIVATION

SciPro Hawk™1 has two installation versions. The 14-day trial version, and the full license version. The full license version can be activated through a web-based process after the license has been purchased. The end user can only install one license per computer. For a site license covering multiple computer installations, contact the DSL Data Mining Co. representative.

Manual Activation Process

A manual activation process is used for the 14-day trial version. The APP prompts the customer to supply a unique Activation Code during the initial launch of the software through the Activation GUI.

The customer will email DSL Data Mining Co to receive the Activation Code. When you receive the Activation Code, enter it in the designated field to begin the 14-day trial period or permanently activate the application on a specific computer.

Once you have completed activation and on each subsequent launch, the SciPro Hawk1 GUI will appear.

Online Activation

Safe Activation is an online service where you log into your account with a web browser and enter data into a few screens. The Select Activation Type Dialogue GUI appears for the end user to begin the activation process.

Step1: Install SciPro Hawk1 with provided Setup.exe.
